USB (Universal Serial Bus) cables were invented in 1994, with the goal of standardizing the connection of computer peripherals.

- The USB standard was developed by a group of companies including Intel, Microsoft, IBM, Compaq, DEC, NEC, and Nortel.
- The first official USB 1.0 specification was released in January 1996.
- USB devices began appearing on the market in 1997, with widespread adoption following soon after, especially with the release of USB 1.1 in September 1998, which fixed many issues in the original spec.
